

Risk Management Give Something Back

As businesses face increasing pressure to deliver profits, it is always a pleasure to work together with our clients to not only help drive their business forward, but to also give something back.

As a security services business based in High Wycombe, Risk Management have successfully built their business over the past 25 years, providing security officers, key holding and mobile patrols, to organisations of all sizes across the South East, from Cambridge to Brighton, Banbury to Kent.

As a result of covering such a vast area, there were numerous community projects to choose from and Risk Management wanted to select a cause that they felt passionate about. A partnership with the Buckinghamshire Youth Rugby Programme was a clear choice, as John Herring, Risk Management's MD, has been a lifelong rugby supporter, understanding how the sport can develop and enhance team-working, particularly amongst children from all backgrounds.

A more personal project was also chosen, helping the John Radcliffe Hospital to raise essential additional funding to complete their new, state of the art Cancer Unit. Following a fundraising dinner in 2008, Risk Management wanted to lend their support to this with a Charity Shoot.

The Risk Management Charity Shoot is being supported by key sports celebrities and will be an exclusive opportunity to shoot at one of the top clay pigeon centres in the country. In addition, it will also offer the opportunity to get the inside news on the upcoming Lions Rugby Tour from the sport's top pundits. Proceeds from this event will be donated to both The John Radcliffe Hospital and The Wooden Spoon Society, a charity helping disadvantaged children.

To find out more about the Charity Shoot, call us on: 01844 273026 or email: owen@ewo.uk.com
The Charity Shoot will take place on Friday 17th July at The Royal Berkshire Shooting Club.
